

SELF-DENIAL WILL HELP TO SAVE THE HEATHEN

Why You Should Give to Self-Denial

BECAUSE of the great work The Salvation Army is doing among the Heathen. The photos on this page illustrate, in a striking manner, what good results are attending our efforts in Korea. Our latest Missionary Field is China, where encouraging progress is being made. The needs of the Heathen Fields are great, and all who love God should help to spread the Gospel in these lands.

BECAUSE The Salvation Army, by the application of the principle of self-support, makes a little money go a very long way.

BECAUSE it helps sinful and miserable people to become good and happy.

Devil-Worshippers of Korea Before Conversion

These are the same three women as in the above photograph after conversion. They are now Salvationists at Seoul, I. Corps, and do good service as Biblewomen.

ARMY SONGS

O JESUS, KEEP ME HOLY

Tunes—Come on my partners, 137.
He lives, 138; S.B. 389.
O Jesus, Saviour, Christ Divine,
When shall I know and feel Thee mine.
Without a doubt or fear?
With anxious, longing thirst I come
To see Thee make my heart Thy mine.
And keep me holy here.

What is there that I will not give
To have Thee ever with me live—
A conquering Christ within?
My life, my all, this blessed day,
Down at Thy precious feet I lay,
To be redeemed from sin.
I can; I do just now believe,
I do the Heavenly grace receive,
The Spirit makes me clean;
Christ takes the whole of my poor heart,
No chains shall ever from me part
My Lord, who reigns supreme.

PRAYSE THE LORD!

Tunes—And above the rest, 1; Dear:
Jesus is the One, 5; S.B. 332.
Praise God for what He's done for me!
Once I was blind, but now I see;
I on the brink of ruin fell—
Glory to God, I'm out of hell!

Chorus

For what the Lord has done for me,
I'll praise Him through eternity!
The Lord has pardoned all my sin,
And now to praise Him I'll begin.
I never praised the Lord before,
But now I'll praise Him more and more.

BECAUSE The Salvation Army is doing valuable work among the Empire's soldiers and sailors by means of (a) Home Services (b) Hostels for men and women (c) Ambulance Units in England (d) Missing Friends Bureau (e) Organized Hospital Visiting (f) Comforts for Prisoners (g) Literature Distribution

BECAUSE God has so loved and prospered you that you are able to give.

BECAUSE The Salvation Army has been tried by every power on earth and has been proved a spiritual, moral, effective, and benevolent agency for the advancement of benevolence.

OH, IT'S GRAND TO BE SAVED
Tune—My heart is so glad Oh, it's grand to be saved, it's saved, to be saved.
Oh, it's grand to be saved,
To know your sin has been forgiven,
To know you are fighting for and Heaven.
It's grand to be saved, it's grand
to be saved!

Oh, it's grand to be saved,
To plunge in the baptism of cleansing (from sin)
To know you have Jesus within;
It's grand to be saved,
Oh, it's grand to be saved,
To be filled with the power of Holy Ghost;
It's grand to be saved, it's grand most.
It's grand to be saved!

Oh, it's grand to be saved,
When Satan to tempt you
— his best.
You are trusting Jesus,
the rest.
It's grand to be saved!

A PRAYER VICTORY IN THE INDIAN JUNGLE

Many months before this people were won, the Captain crept through the shimmering village to the jungle beyond to intercede for the souls of the heathen. "I believed that the God of that woman was a real God." (See "Power of Prayer"—Page 2.)

HELPING THE CORPS

The Home League workers at Stratford have been a great help to us this winter. At Easter they held an Apron Sale, and cleared $25, which paid off the winter fuel account. Also, they have made quite a number of shirts and knitted socks. They have also given cheer by going to the House of Refuge to hold bright services with the inmates. The Secretary, Mrs. Lamb, is one of the oldest Soldiers here, but she takes great interest in the work.

Home League Secretary Mrs. J. Bowring, of Bay Roberts, Nfld., in writing to Mrs. Commissioner Richards, says: "I am in receipt of your letter also the papers I and II. The readings of the same were much appreciated by the members. I am glad to say that we are progressing. We have now a membership of twenty-eight. I have also appointed two Visiting Sergeants and in their visiting they have proved a great blessing; many have been saved through their instrumentality. Some of the members do knitting for the soldiers at the front. Last Thursday evening we were visited by Captain Winsor, who gave us a very interesting reading, which was enjoyed by all. We shall endeavour to do all in our power to make the Home League a success."

The Moncton Home League, under the direction of Mrs. Adjutant Hurd (Secretary), has been working hard during the past two months, preparing for a Sale of Work, which took place on April 9th. The Sale opened at 3 p.m. The fancy goods stall was nicely decorated; a stall was also arranged for the home-made candy and cakes. At 8 p.m., although a snowstorm was raging outside, the Hall was full. The musical programme was a grand success. Fifty dollars was realized, and some garments are still on hand.—Work.

Band Notes

The Regina Band, at the request of His Worship Mayor Cowan, took part in a monster parade recently. On Sunday morning, April 1st, a considerable number of returned soldiers arrived at Regina, and our Band was requested to be present and cheer them with music. The Bandmen turned out well equipped, and their best to welcome the men who have made such sacrifices for us who are left behind. We have welcomed the addition to the great families in this person of Brother Fleischer from Switzerland. Our comrade was a member of the Swedish Staff Band, and is indeed gladly welcomed and added to many of our men are leaving us.

The Montreal II. Band turned out in good strength recently for the funeral of the baby of Ensign and Mrs. Goodhue. The Dead March in D was rendered. We were assisted by Captain Tice and Adjutant Verden and Montreal City Band. Also Adjutants Richards and Calvert of Headquarters, and Adjutants Verden and Richards of No. 3 Band Books has been rendered.—H. P.

A Useful Brigade

THE BRANDON LEAGUE OF MERCY IS DOING GOOD SERVICE

The Brandon Corps has a splendid body of women Soldiers, who were formed into a League of Mercy Brigade during the command of Adjutant and Mrs. Weir. They have done, and are doing, most excellent service; their activities including nursing the sick, cleaning the house of some ailing person, visiting the hospital wards, distributing Army literature, conducting meetings in prison, and investigating cases in need of relief. There is no Salvation Army Women's Social Institution in the city, and, where possible, the League undertakes this work. Quite frequently women are handed over to the Army by the police and the League is ever ready to help by means of advice and practical assistance. The following is one instance of many. A young baby was abandoned by its mother and left on the

A SALE OF WORK

A successful Sale of Work in connection with the Home League was held at 1 Leith Street, on Saturday afternoon, April 7th, in the presence of Mrs. Hardie, the wife of Mayor Hardie, assisted by her husband, opened the Sale at 2 p.m. There were also present the prominent people present at the close of Mrs. Hardie's sale. Assistant and Mrs. Mutant's sale, presented Mrs. Hardie with a bouquet of carnations and roses. They were five stalls, with a variety of fancy work, drapery, lace, cream, candy, and fancy goods. The members of the Home League, by their labours, have been a financial help to the Corps, and two years the Home League has raised $250 to the Corps, and the proceeds being paid. Mrs. Hardie (Secretary) and Mrs. Tolson (Sister) have been greatly helped by a good hand of work; and Mrs. Mutant also gave credit for their efforts in this year's Sale of Work.

The Winnipeg II. Home League recently made a fine sale of socks for our boys at the front. Mrs. Commissioner's Secretary, superintending the distribution, will be pleased to receive the comforts for the troops. Donations from these unable to undertake the work, the said "comforts" are appreciated.

The St. Thomas Home League, during the past winter, has raised money to buy coal for the needy. They are now helping towards the installation of a furnace in the Quarters. A clothing drive has been started, and a sewing machine purchased for the use of the women class. A brother has donated a splendid cutting board.

make their children obedient from their birth. They should train them from their earliest days in prayer and faith, and in love to the holies and seek to give children. They should seek to inspire them with love to Christ, and to the holy purpose to devote all their life to the work of extending the Kingdom to the earth, train and educate them to be according to their own light. SALVATION HUMAN WRECKAGE

Changes at Annual Report of The Army's Work in United Kingdom.

Notwithstanding the heavy demands made upon the resources of The Salvation Army, the annual report of this year, the United Kingdom has just reached us in the form of an attractive little booklet, with the title "Worth from Waste". In an introductory note, The General says: "Our work for the suffering—the halt and lame and forgotten—is steadily going forward, even in these tremendous days of storm and trial."

Our Choicest Gift. An emphatic negative is given by The General to people who ask whether The Army's methods of social redemption could not be dispensed with in the present abnormal circumstances.

The Salvation Army. The General says, "has given, and is giving, a large number of its choicest lives to the service of the Empire, its ministries extend to the battlefronts and the encampments, the hospitals and the sickroom homes, the making of the said 'comforts' we claim to have done; nor have we failed in the other."

The cause of the women; the girls, and the children, will, says The General, make their own appeal for continued and increased maintenance, and while the appeal may not be so apparent in the case of the men and boys, it is nevertheless there. As a matter of fact, it has been found necessary to re-open all the Men's Institutions, which were closed during the first year of the war; with three exceptions—but then four new Institutions have become imperative in other centres.

Much-Needed Aid. The majority of the former inmates of the Shelters are either fighting in the ranks of the country's defenders or they have found other employment. Numbers of old men, on the other hand, have left infirmities and workhouses from patriotic motives, but often they are incapable of doing more than a few hours' work per day, and being unable to earn sufficient to pay for board and lodging in private houses, are cared for in our Shelters.

The provision made in numerous centres for munition workers; to the striking success that has attended the efforts of the Boys' Department on behalf of juvenile delinquents; to that valuable scheme, now organized on a national basis, of Widows and Consolators; and, lastly, to the important Migration of Women enterprise, so recently and promisingly whetted, all of them schemes which cannot fail to command generous support.

On April 15th at Earlscourt we had with us Staff-Captain Cornish and several of the Officers from the Industrial Department. In the afternoon we had some real, old-time choruses. The Staff-Captain dedicated two young children to God. A profitable Salvation meeting was held at night. R. H.

SAVATION SUNSHINE DISPELS SOCIAL SHADOWS.

Four Social Trophies

THEY HAVE SPENT A CENTURY IN PRISON BETWEEN THEM

ONE hundred years in prison. Such would be the total if all the sentences received by the four Social trophies (whose photo is shown on this page) were added together. Peter DeRose was sentenced to life imprisonment, but after twenty-eight years behind the bars, was released and handed over to the care of The Salvation Army. On coming out of Kingston Penitentiary he

"Pen" was curtailed to nineteen years. The last time he came out of Kingston The Salvation Army took him in hand, and after one year at the Industrial Department, he got soundly converted. "I consider it a miracle," he says, "that, after fifty years of drinking and smoking, I should suddenly lose the desire for both of them, and become an honest man into the bargain."

say a child playing in the street and he burst into tears. "That is the first child I have seen for twenty-eight years," he said to The Army Officer with him. Work was found for Peter in the Industrial Department at Toronto, and in a meeting one night he sought and found Salvation. For several years now he has been a steady and reliable employee of the Department and a good Soldier of the Industrial Corps.

Brother Brown was an inveterate horse thief and his various sentences amounted to twenty-five years. He made a good prisoner, however, and on this account his stay in the gain." But that is what has happened. Brother Dick Harris has also spent nearly forty years in various prisons, drunkness and theft were his fillings. He is now doing well. Brother Sanger was a vagrant and in an indescribably dirty condition when he came under The Army's care. He had done several jail sentences, but only got worse and worse. The kindness he experienced at The Army's Industrial Department and the good influences which surrounded him greatly affected the old man. Eventually he got saved, and is doing faithful service.

Salvation Day at Earlscourt Corps

On April 15th at Earlscourt we had with us Staff-Captain Cornish and several of the Officers from the Industrial Department. In the afternoon we had some real, old-time choruses. The Staff-Captain dedicated two young children to God. A profitable Salvation meeting was held at night. R. H.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

Increases Donation to Social Work

Ensign Oake (Port Arthur) has received $50 per month during the winter from the Town Council for so pleased with the work accomplished that they have decided to give a further grant of $50 per month to keep the good work advancing. God is blessing our work here, and souls are being saved. Last Sunday an enrolment took place.

HELP IN NEED

Some Incidents from the Calgary Social Work.

The Salvation Army's Social operations in Calgary are helping many men and women in their hour of need. Here are some typical incidents showing what is being done.

E. L. came to us with her child on Sunday morning, stranded and without friends, and begged us to assist her to get employment to enable her to support herself and child. She was taken to our Rescue Home and there looked after until a position was found for her. In a few days this was done, and to-day she is doing splendidly.

Just about closing time, a young lad came into our Industrial Store and asked if we could supply him with a cheap pair of boots. The way in which he spoke and his threadbare appearance caused the Officer to ask how he was fixed. In reply the lad told him that owing to his father having been laid up with sickness for some weeks, he was now the sole support of the large family, and was only earning five dollars a week, although doing a man's work, delivering large sacks of grain, etc. He was taken in and fitted up with boots and overcoats as well as food. The case was also looked into and the family provided with groceries and fuel.

D. McD. came to us late one night and asked if we could assist him. He had worked his way to Calgary on a cattle train and on reaching the city had fallen off the car and broken three ribs. We took him in and provided him with beds, meals, and clothing, and as quickly as possible got him into a hospital. When he was sufficiently recovered we got him a job, and with his first month's wages he paid back his hospital bill. Finally, he left for his home, and the last word we had from him he was getting on well.

FREED BY PRISONERS

An Unusual Incident of Jail Time

A man was recently sentenced in the Toronto Police Court to six days' fine and costs of $20 to prison for thirty days. He had not the wherewithal to pay the fine, so was sent to the Mimico Industrial, where he was a very sick and weakly man and his appearance so excited the compassion of the other prisoners that they clubbed together and raised the amount necessary to free him.

When Adjutant Adams visited the jail that day the freed prisoner was handed over to him, and he took him to Toronto and saw that he was provided with food and lodging for a while till he was able to secure some sort of employment.

WAR CRY

Published for the Salvation Army in Canada, Newfoundland, Bermuda, and Alaska, by The Salvation Army Publishing House, 18 Albert Street, Toronto.

Editorial Notes

The Great Disappointment

THE terrible condition of things which exists in the Old Country in respect to the Drink Traffic continues to exercise the mind of The General. The soul-stirring denunciation of the evil which have come from his pen have done much to create the steadily-rising tide of public indignation, from which no hope is hoped. The following are some striking extracts from his most recent article on the subject, written under the heading which stands at the top.

"After speaking of the hopes of better things which had been entertained in the early days of the war, the General says:—

"I am afraid that those of us who really know what is going on can only confess that in a large degree these bright hopes of better days have been bitterly disappointed. It is just as well we should face the fact. And for myself, I say without hesitation, that the Drink Traffic is largely responsible. The abominable system of cantons established (with public money, and used by the contractors and brewers for private gain) by the military authorities has thrown the baneful influence of alcohol around the millions of men who have joined the forces.

"This has reacted on the home-life of the people round about them. The waves and other dependents, who were more than ever before, and seeing their men drinking, have followed suit. And, in the terrible and same vicious influence, those around them, earning large sums in the peace-time employments of the time, have been led into the terrible and same vicious influence of sensualism and brutalities.

"What will be the use of winning the war, if on the home front we lose it by the shameful weakness and vice of our people and their exploiters? But is it, I ask, even now impossible to save the situation? I think not. I believe one possibility is open to us. I believe that even yet the Christian Churches of the country, if they would unite, could end this thing. No Government, no matter how strongly backed its component parts, could withstand for a week a united front of the whole Churches of the land on this matter."

Let any of our readers who may be able to influence opinion in the Old Country, do so to the utmost of their ability; and, above all, pray that God may bring about the defeat of the devil and the deliverance of the whole Empire from this dreadful evil.

The Prayer Week

WHY do we have a Week of Prayer prior to Self-Denial? Because the Salvation Army believes that praying makes a difference to things. Prayer—the believing prayer of righteous, hard-working men and women—links human weakness to Divine strength. It puts the soul into touch with God. Praying breath is never wasted. To omit to pray because one is busy is not only an affront to God, but utterly fails from the standpoint of getting through. Time spent in prayer is not time taken from a day's work, but means an addition of wisdom and strength which immeasurably increases the capacity of soul, mind, and body; for work as well as for worship.

Pray about the Self-Denial Appeal. Pray for the work which the money gathered will help to maintain and extend. Ask God for an enlarged vision of the importance and needs of that work. Pray for the coming of God's Kingdom on earth—and go out from the prayer chamber in the spirit of the petitions which have been offered.

For Our Boys

THE principle underlying The Army's extensive Work on behalf of the troops at home and abroad was well set out by Mrs. Booth in an address she gave at the opening of one of the immense Hostels which have been established, and which are so very largely used by Canadian and other Colonial troops, when passing through London.

"It is," she said, "because the war has lying behind it a truly moral and spiritual work that we feel the and which are so very largely used by Canadian and other Colonial troops, when passing through London.

"The cable from 'The General' waves with who have given their lives for us, should be kept as far as possible from filling a prey to those unclean and terrible things which not only at war does maintain and hurt the body, but which ruin and desolate the soul."

"The cable from 'The General' waves with who have given their lives for us, should be kept as far as possible from filling a prey to those unclean and terrible things which not only at war does maintain and hurt the body, but which ruin and desolate the soul."

Kingston Celebration

Military, Civic Authorities, and Salvationists Join in Honouring Departed Comrades.

COMM. AND MRS. RICHARDS LEAD SALVATION BATTLES

Memorial Tablet to Captain Milton Develled in Citadel

SUCH a combination of military and civic functions and Salvationist engagements as that which made up the week-end at Kingston, Ont., is probably unique in the history of The Salvation Army.

When Commissioner and Mrs. Richards arrived on Saturday afternoon, at the depot were drawn up not only the local Corps, with its Band and a fine showing of Lieutenants, Scouts and Guards, but a guard of honour formed of members of the Veterans' Association, and the Mayor of the city.

The Commissioner having inspected the guard, and Mrs. Richards arrived on Saturday afternoon, at the depot were drawn up not only the local Corps, with its Band and a fine showing of Lieutenants, Scouts and Guards, but a guard of honour formed of members of the Veterans' Association, and the Mayor of the city.

The city authorities and military were unitedly celebrating the second anniversary of the battle of Vimere, and it was in order that the Commissioner might take part in this, with the local Corps, that his visit had been solicited.

At the City Park

From the station all proceeded in procession to the City Park, for the ceremonial placing of a wreath upon a tree planted last year in memory of a young officer who had made the great sacrifice. All the soldiers in garrison were drawn up on three sides of a hollow square, with the General in Command and his staff in the centre. On the fourth side was a military band and the High Land regiment's pipes, with a wide space left. Into this marched The Salvation Army Corps and Band, and given the Mayor and the Commissioner had joined the party with in the squares, the ceremony proceeded. Prayer by a local Minister (Rev. A. Brown), suitable music by the band and singing of patriotic dresses by the Mayor and General Hemming followed, the function concluding with an address by the Commissioner who spoke not only of battles in which Canadian troops had distinguished themselves overseas, but with the old-time victory of the British and Canadian troops upon which to hang his message, sought to hearten all for the fight of right against wrong. Loud and long applause rang out amidst the trees, from the ranks of the troops and from the great assemblage of civilians, when he concluded.

David Kerr Collins, as the representative of the Commissioner and Staff at Saturday evening's meeting, and at knee drill on Sunday morning a capture was also made.

Will Bring Victory

Self-Denial Week, May 12-19

COMMISSIONER RICHARDS

TALKS TO "THE WAR CRY" OF HIS HOPES AND DESIRES.

FOR THE COMING EFFORT

WHAT About Self-Denial. Above the rattle of the car Commissioner Richards rapped out in his quick, incisive way: "Good! There is a good spirit everywhere! I have not heard a pessimistic word spoken, or received a letter from anybody which is not hopeful in tone. From Newfoundland I have already an assurance that this Division will go fully $400 beyond last year's result!"

What Is Expected

"What do you expect?" "That everybody will do his or her best and that this will land us at least twenty per cent. ahead of last year's record total."

"What does this mean?" "Taken in detail, that everybody who gave or collected a dollar last year, will add in this year's result, taken in the lump that we shall pass the $55,000 mark."

"That sounds a big sum." "Yes, but the secret of success will be to take it in detail—for everybody to make some of the small increase it requires on their individual part."

"You are an enthusiast for Self-Denial?"

"Yes! And you should have seen the Commissioner's eyes sparkle when he admitted the impeachment. 'You see, it is such a good thing, and has such far-reaching effects.' 'It brings in the money—Salvation warfare cannot be carried on without money.'

"It is an opportunity for everybody who loves God and their neighbor to show they do so. The effort has such a wide scope—if you can't give money, you can give goods, or make up articles for sale; if you can't do even this, you can give time and energy to collecting from others; if you can't give time you can give money; some can and are doing money; some can and are doing giving, praying, planning, and working, almost day and night, in a way which wins my soul when I think of it, and which must act as an incentive to all who know of it. It's a glorious opportunity for every rich or poor, learned or illiterate, to do something which will really count."

Amplify Repaid

"Not the least of the result of a good Self-Denial Effort is the improvement in the spiritual condition of a Corps. No one can do anything for God without being amplified. The tide is never brought into the storehouse without the windows of Heaven being opened and the promised blessings forthcoming. 'Just a word of caution should be given here—all should be sure to start out in the right spirit and that the devil may try to switch us off the line to success. Holy rivalry and the provocation of one another to love and good work are good; rivalry without holiness may bring in some money, but it will not bring in as much as the right thing, and all the blessing will be lost!"

"The very most should be made of the Week of Prayer upon which we are now entering. Pray, plan, work, and give—that's the order!"

"What are the objects of Self-Denial?" "To provide funds to maintain and extend The Army's Spiritual, Social, and Missionary Work at home and abroad, with a special view to helping those countries where the Work is not yet self-supporting."

"The General put the position very clearly in the interview which was published last week, in which he said:—

"My own feeling is that it is not fair that we should have received such benefits as we have from the Cross of Christ and yet withhold from the Heavens the knowledge of Him and of His Salvation, and it is doubly unfair when we remember that Jesus Christ undoubtedly embraced all peoples within the amount of remittance, and it is, I say it reverently, unfair, alike to the Saviour and to those for whom He died, that we should hold back ourselves, our children, or our treasure from any possible enterprise which aims at making more widely known among the Heavens the Salvation of God. It is not 'playing the game' to have it and to keep it to ourselves!"

Where the Money Goes

"Not all the money goes out of the Territory?" "By no means. But my own experience is that the individual organization or nation which is generous in regard to sending Salvation to the heathen reaps in return an abundant harvest of not only spiritual blessing, but temporal prosperity. And where an opposite spirit prevails the contrary result follows."

"What branches of the Work at home will benefit directly from a good Self-Denial return?" "I have many schemes on hand for the enlargement of work in every department. We are negotiating with the Government in regard to making provision for children who have been orphaned by the war. We must also do more in the camps during the coming summer, and I intend, if finances will allow, to set apart more Officers for this purpose."

"It is also in my mind to help more largely than I have hitherto been able to do, certain Corps which are badly in need of either new buildings or of additions to their existing Halls. During the year, I may say, the Young People's side of things has been assisted in this way to the extent of some thousands of dollars."

"Then every Corps realizes direct benefit in proportion to the amount raised?"

Plans Already in Hand for Extension of The Army's Efforts to Aid OUR BOYS OVERSEAS

[By Cable] International Headquarters, London.

To Commissioner Richards:—Your further gift extremely welcome. Plans already in motion for its disposal to the best advantage in interests of soldiers. Am grateful for generosity of your people. Your men are doing splendid work.

BRANWELL BOOTH, General.

Our readers will remember that some little time ago, a sum of $50,000 was sent from Canada East to The General to help with the provision of Huts and Officers to work amongst the troops in France and Newfoundland who were in the Old Country and in France. The further gift now acknowledged is a second remittance, and the amount, making $10,000 in all. The sending of this has been made possible by the excellent response made to the recent appeal.

Commissioner Lamb is one of the members of the Imperial War Office War Emigration Committee which has been appointed by the British Colonial Secretary to consider and report on the measures to be taken for dealing with the large numbers of soldiers who may desire to emigrate after the war. Lord Tennyson is Chairman of the Committee, which also includes Sir Rider Haggard, Mr. A. D. Steel-Maitland, M.P., Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, and the High Commissioners and Agents-General for Australia, New Zealand, Canada, and South Africa.

Commissioner Sturgess, who has been very ill, has rallied, and is maintaining his strength.

Colonel Forman, who has been in charge of The Army's Work in France and Belgium for the past few years, is appointed to be Provincial Officer in French Switzerland.

Colonel Peyron is appointed to be the Territorial Commander for France.

There is a slight improvement in the condition of Lieut. Colonel Mary Murray, who has been seriously ill.

HEART-TO-HEART TALKS
By Mrs. Blanche Johnston.
I was told a sweet little incident by a lady the other day. We were conversing upon the importance of prayer, and the fact that so few people seemed to realize that prayer should be a dialogue, not a monologue. Apropos of this thought, my friend gave me the following little story:

A little girl was seen to leave her play several times a day and run to her bedside and kneel down. It was noticed that she did not seem to pray. Some one inquired, "Why do you do that, Mary?" "Oh," answered the small devotee, "I prayed this morning, you see, I talked to God, and I just ran in to wait and see if He had anything He wanted to say to me."

Wonderful conception of the reality of prayer—the inner meaning of communion with God. This tiny child had surely heard the Divine voice and learned in the Heavenly school the real philosophy of intercession. We wonder how many of our adult readers wait to hear the voice of God, who can say with the boy Samuel, "Speak, Lord, for Thy servant heareth." "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

NOTE.—We hope to resume our weekly incident for use in meetings or in visiting, in connection with our heart-to-heart talks.

Downcast.—On Sunday Brigadier Adley conducted the service at the office of Wallace Everett Buntson, son of Adjutant and Mrs. Buntton. At the conclusion of the ceremony Adjutant Buntson took of his hat, and his children should become soul-winners. The songsters sprang a pleasant surprise at this service, when they sang a song from the Brigadier's Special Song Sheet. The service was concluded by a short, impressive address by Brigadier Buntson on the training of children.

Adjutant Lewis had charge of the meetings here last Sunday, and at night gave a very interesting address. At the close of the service the choir sang.

Bro. and Sis. Ireland, Oshawa
In spite of the heavy rain a large number of people witnessed the funeral service of our late comrades, Brother and Sister Ireland. More and more we realize that God is "too wise to err and too good to be unkind," and when the news came on March 22nd that Brother Ireland had passed away just a few hours after his wife, we felt again that this was God's goodness.

They were both seventy-five years of age, had been brought up in the same village, and had been married fifty-five years. When Brother Ireland was taken to the hospital his poor wife felt very lonely. Not very long after she was taken there, too old to look after them, she was taken to the hospital. The Lord kindly took them, and the thing they both dreaded so much never happened; they did not have to part.

It was a very solemn and heart-touching sight to see both caskets lowered in the same grave. The services, which were conducted by the Corps Officers, were very impressive. "Dad" Ireland was a man noted for his honesty. Godly life. To visit him was an inspiration. His seventy-five years lived on this earth has not been lived vainly and selfishly, but he shall enter safely into the Kingdom through the influence of his life.

Brother J. Summers, Clarendville
On Monday passed away on March 22nd. He was one of the oldest Soldiers in our Corps. During this last four years he has been unable to do anything owing to his sickness, but he was always hopeful and looked on the bright side of life. His end was peace. He had no fear of death.

On Sunday, April 1st, we held him to rest. A large crowd attended the funeral service, which was conducted by Adjutant Buntson.

COMMISSIONER SOWTON

CONDUCTS CAMPAIGN AT TWIN CITIES-TERRITORIAL SECRETARY LEADS MEETINGS AT WINNIPEG ASSISTED BY THE TRAINING COLLEGE STAFF AND CADETS

The "Twin Cities" were visited by the Commissioner on Saturday and Sunday, April 14th-15th. On his journey East the Commissioner, who was accompanied by Brigadier Taylor, stopped off at Kenora, Ont., and conducted a fine Salvation meeting. A splendid crowd of people attended, and our Leader's efforts were much appreciated.

At Port William Major Sims joined the party and assisted in the special meeting.

About seventy per cent of the splendid congregation which gathered for the morning meeting, at Port Arthur were in His Majesty's uniform, and gave the Commissioner an enthusiastic welcome. His appeal to the men in khaki was splendid, and was listened to most attentively.

The Hall was filled in the afternoon to hear the Commissioner's lecture, "Salvation Army Warfare in Many Lands."

During the night meeting five military "boys" farrowed for overseas, and a number of souls sought Salvation.

Major Sims conducted a meeting in the jail, and the Commissioner met the Young People. Ensign and Mrs. Cole (Corps Officer) worked hard for the success of the Campaign. The Port William Band also rendered valuable assistance, and their services were deeply appreciated.

Eighteen souls at the Mercy Seat were the result of the meetings conducted by Lieut.-Colonel Turner at Winnipeg 1. on Sunday, April 15th. Brigadier and Mrs. Phillips and the Sergeant Parsons, Winnipeg 1.

Our late brother was promoted to glory from a hospital in London, England, on March 26th. He was converted in 1918, on a Sunday morning, at the close of a meeting conducted by a few of our Army comrades in prison, where he had been confined the night previous for drunkenness. He became a very earnest worker. In the fulfilment of his duty to God, he had an utter disregard for the opinion of men, and whatever they thought of him, or because of this, he encountered great persecution on every hand; but he never flinched.

About a year previous to his death he left Winnipeg as a gunner in His Majesty's forces for service overseas. While in France he became very ill, and was conveyed to London where he died, leaving behind him a beautiful example of what a true Salvationist ought to be.—B. W.

Training Staff and Cadets assisted. The occasion was the first in which the Cadets appeared in public as a body previous to their Dedication Service, and Commissioning. Their definite testimony to the complete deliverance from the power of sin were inspiring indeed.

The proceedings of the afternoon were most varied and interesting. Each of the Cadets informed the audience how they came in contact with The Salvation Army. One stated it was a residence man sent to Canada by his father to reform; was attracted to the meeting through the medium of the open-air service, and was eventually converted. Another, a Western rancher, gave some particulars of his conversion in The Army. It was most encouraging to learn that many of them have been attracted to The Army by its customary open-air meetings. One of the seven Cadets stated: "I was born in The Army and came up through the Junior, for which I thank God."

Four open-air were held previous to the night meeting, and the lengthy procession, headed by the Citadel Band, attracted considerable attention on the streets. The Young People's Band also supplied music in the march to the Citadel. Quite a number of the women Cadets were given an opportunity to speak in the night service; their words being most forcible. Brigadier Phillips, Adjutant Howell, and Captain Sharratts, also took part. The Colonel gave a brief Salvation address. A typical battle for souls followed, with the result aforementioned.

TRAGIC WARNINGS

SEVERAL tragedies that have occurred of late have called attention to the foolish practice of parents leaving their little ones alone in the house while they attend some place of amusement or of worship.

One especially sad instance was that of a soldier's widow leaving four children in bed while she went on a visit to a friend. When she returned the house was on fire and the children dead. Another case was that of a mother going to a meeting and leaving two children at

DEADLY SINS

HERE is a reprehensible tendency to-day against which we feel in duty bound to utter a strong word of protest (says the "Social Gazette"). We allude to the offhand and irresponsible manner in which, whenever the serious question of the health and morals of service men is broached, and especially as it concerns those from overseas, the whole blame is flung upon the women and girls whose unhappily position is further aggravated by denying them common justice. That would misery has, and does, and will yet result from those unholy relationships is, alas! indisputable; that one sex alone is to blame is a monstrous falsehood. Could the sad history of each case be traced, few of the frail creatures who ply the deadly calling of the streets but would be found to have been the victims of some grievous personal or social wrong that first set their steps in the way, that leads to the destruction of virtue as well as to physical plagues that appal and disgust. There are generally two parties to the crime; nothing can alter the fact.

HINTS FOR FARM WORKERS
An old-fashioned farmer, to giving advice to young fellows going on farms to help increase production this year, says: "Nothing is more discouraging and nothing to wear than blistered hands. The chance of prevention is said to be worth a pound of cure, a few suggestions along that line will, I am sure, help in the cause of increased production."

"Sheepskin gloves are a good thing, and everyone will do well to get a pair for protection, but care of the hands is my theme. Wash with salt water; when dry, oil with any kind of good lubricating oil. It will be well to take with you a ten-cent pot of vaseline, in case oil will not be found where you go. Repeat the salt-water wash several times to prepare your hands. Oil the handle of every hoe, rake, spade, hand-hoe on plow, or other implement; rub the oil to with a piece of smooth hardwood until the handle is smooth and well-oiled; then oil your hands. Do not hold the handle too firmly, and do not work all day at the same lengthened.

Tractors on Farms
The use of tractors on Canadian farms promises to be a feature of this year's operations. The attraction of a gas or steam power tractor as an investment compared with horseflesh, is the fact that when not in use the machine will do little for upkeep, provided it is carefully stored.

The present circumstances as regard labour supply for farmers are unusual, to say the least, and although a fair supply of horses is reported in most of the farming districts, the possibility of securing help to manage them effectively is very remote; and as a previously untrained man was found to manage a tractor capable of doing the work of four, six, or more horses, just as quickly as he can learn to drive and take care of one horse, it is admitted by some of the most capable, horsemen that, at this time, the training of the present supply of tractor operators will be a disadvantage to the industry as a whole.

RE-ADJUSTING TRADE
WITH the object in view of clearing the ground for after-the-war trade with all parts of the British Empire and Allied nations, France has abrogated all existing trade treaties. She hopes to see Canada supply many classes of

A Stirring Story of Military Life and a Soul's Salvation

CHAPTER XXI

STRATEGY AND COUNTER-STRATEGY

SITTING on his rocky ledge, with a pile of stones around him, George felt a little further from further attempts to take his position by storm. To his surprise, however, he saw Corporal Smith and the two gunners once more commencing the climb.

"Hello, what little scheme are they trying to work out now?" he said to himself. "I thought they got enough winks on 'em last time to prevent 'em coming for more. Well, all right, 'em come, I'm ready for 'em! If I drop a rock on Smith this time and he happens to fall down and get hurt, it's his own lookout!"

He watched them steadily climbing upwards, taunting them with their slowness, and now and then throwing up a stone. Next moment a shower of large stones fell around George, several striking him and hurting him severely. They came from the opposite side of the gorge, the top of which commanded George's position, and were flung by the three Maltese. The result of this strategy was that the ledge became utterly untenable for poor George; and he had to beat a hasty retreat into the cave.

A yell of triumph came from the three men below, "which was taken up by the three stone throwers until the hills echoed with their shouts. 'Well, I'm in the last ditch now,' said George as he rubbed his painful bruises. 'If that last stone that hit me had gone a little higher I would probably have been lying senseless on the ledge. As it is I got it in the neck that time, as Joe would say.'

Sitting on the large, flat-topped stone in the second chamber of the cave, George revolved several desperate schemes of escape in his mind. Could he not charge at them when he reaches the ledge, push him off into space and get down with him, trusting to luck that this enemy would be the underdog when they struck the bottom? Not when he was sweet after all, and it might happen that he himself would be the underdog. That was too great a chance to take.

What then could he do? Albeit a prisoner seemed the only alternative. Meanwhile his foes were creeping nearer. By inch by inch he knew they were climbing up the face of the rock. Before long he would see the features of Smith appear above the ledge, and then they would come in, draw bayonet and arrest him. Suddenly another thought occurred to him. He had not fully expected that they would do this. It was so obvious to him that he felt a little overlooked.

He slipped up he hurried into the narrow recess of the cave, and, looking back, saw the remaining three Maltese were carefully examining the rocky wall. Suddenly the three Maltese and then went out. He was sure he felt a slight movement.

He was sure in here means a safe place. He was sure in here means a safe place. He was sure in here means a safe place.

Stooping down he carefully felt the wall before him and a little further on discovered the opening he was in search of. It did not seem to be very big; in fact, George had to be flat on his stomach to wriggle through. At any other time he would have hesitated to venture into such a place without a light; but his strong desire to take desperate risks. He wriggled along the narrow tunnel for the space of several yards, perhaps, and then found that he could stretch his arms out and not touch the sides. He rose slowly to his feet with arms upraised to watcher every day, and finally dying of starvation. More hopeful thoughts soon prevailed, however, and he set out to find some exit from the cavern. He thought his best plan would be to grope around one of the walls till he discovered some way out. For what seemed to him an age he passed this place, examining along blindly, and climbing over many huge boulders in his path. "What if I am going round in a circle?" A cold sweat broke out on him at the thought. "Had he escaped one danger only to meet one infinitely worse? He began to reproach ward his head from coming in and then contact with the roof. But when he stood upright with arms fully extended he could feel no solid substance.

To gain some idea as to what sort of a place he had reached he struck his foot, remaining motionless, his guiding light with his hand to prevent a sudden darkness extinguishing it. His feeble radiance did not enable him to see much of his surroundings, but he judged he was in a vast cavern. One thing he did notice, and that was that a big rock stood right in front of him, and that the ground sloped slightly upwards. The idea immediately occurred to him that he could effectively baffle his pursuers by knocking the passage into a dead end.

A few good, hard pushes, and the rock rolled down the slope right into the hole, so that it would be the other side to shift it. George also wondered if he would be able to roll it back from his side, so the cavern he was now in. He thought made him wonder, as he pictured himself wandering round and round in the darkness, growing himself for not surrendering to Smith, and then for rolling that big rock into the hole.

Horror was his lot as he felt the darkness and solitude. Unconverted as he was, and unaccustomed to think of God, the wretched man fell on his knees and prayed as many sinners do when in dire peril. "Lord, help me; Lord, have mercy upon me!"

No miracle happened, but he was not immediately delivered, an voice spoke to him; but he seemed to gain calmness through his appeal to the Infinite.

"There must be a way out," he kept repeating. "Lord, help me to find it!" And gradually hope returned to him, and he got up and continued his search. The floor of the cavern seemed to slope down sharply now. Once he stumbled and fell, and rolled quite a distance before a rock stopped his further progress. On scrambling to his feet he perceived a certain brightness a little way ahead. Fully believing that he was nearing the exit, he went on with a joyful cry. Suddenly he came to a halt, another step and he would have been over the edge of the cliff. He could see a part of the great daylight altered month of the surface over the cave.

The problem now was to get down to the surface. It was a difficult task, for it was necessary to find a way out of the cavern. He thought his best plan would be to grope around one of the walls till he discovered some way out. For what seemed to him an age he passed this place, examining along blindly, and climbing over many huge boulders in his path. "What if I am going round in a circle?" A cold sweat broke out on him at the thought. "Had he escaped one danger only to meet one infinitely worse? He began to reproach

ON THE WAY TO CHINA

Letters from Canada West

Interesting letters have been received by Commissioner Richards from the representatives at the West who have left for China. The letters are as follows:

"On this the eleventh day of my journey, we are in sight of Japan and hope to reach Yokohama in time this afternoon. On the way we had an excellent dinner. We have had prayers and Chinese songs every evening, and finally, reading about China in the 'West'. The Officers on board and write a few of the common characters, and pronounce a few words."

"A Salvation meeting has been held each Sunday evening, and we have also given two readings of the Bible, and the passages have expressed a great deal of satisfaction and interest."

The members of the party united assurance—"By and by we will see the face of our Lord. The Officers on board are sensitive to be true to God and to hit on high the blessed Black and Red Flag, which, having shown us all so well since our first day, gives us confidence for the future."

MINE EXPLOSION

Takes Toll of Life at Coal Mine. Army Officers Confer with the Board.

Regarding the terrible mine explosion which occurred at Coal Mine, B.C., Captain Little, who is stationed at Fernie, writes as follows:

"Fifty-four men were killed at the time, and the mine was closed for a number of days. The explosion was a terrible one, and the loss of life was a great one. The mine was closed for a number of days, and the loss of life was a great one."

SELF-DENIAL PAYS FOR WORK LIKE THIS

SALVATION ARMY OFFICERS AT THEIR WORK OF MERCY IN CHINA

This picture will have special interest, because a party of Officers has recently been sent from Canada to China. The Army's latest Missionary Field. When visiting in the Slums of Peking the Officers shown found this poor boy lying dreadfully ill and in a state of vile neglect. He had not been washed for three months! It is only what the world has learnt to expect of Salvationists, wherever they may be, that they should at once do their best for the sufferer. It is by such acts that the way is opened to the hearts of the people who live in the dark places of the earth.

2,500 Salvation Army Officers are constantly at work on our Missionary Fields, which include:-

INDIA
SOUTH AMERICA

Irrespective of nationality, race, colour, or station, The Army goes into all the world to preach the Gospel to all men.

Sergeant-Major Cummings, of H.M. Corps, London, England, is the Champion Collector for the British Territory. Every year, for the Appeal period, he turns his shop into a 'Self-Denial' collecting centre. This photo shows the huge placard with which he covers his window. Take note he has again smashed his target at 200 yds. When the Appeal is over the Sergeant-Major's district is as excited as ever as a nation. Does any Local Officer in Canada feel that?

The Women's Social Work

Includes: Receiving and Industrial Homes, Midnight Work, Laundries, Workrooms, and Shum Work; Maternity Hospitals; Homes for Children; Aged Women, and many other beneficent and Christ-like Institutions.

Throughout the world there are 123 Industrial Homes, with accommodation for no fewer than 4,053 of our unfortunate sisters.

In addition, there are 33 Maternity Homes, accommodating 755; and 49 Children's Homes, with room for 2,215.
